LAND BILL BACK TO COMMITTEE.

Property of School Department Before Oklahoma House in Considering Bill Proposing Sale.

Guthrie, Okla., April 13.—The school land question was before the Oklahoma House of Representatives for several hours today in the consideration of the committee's bill proposing to sell the state's public lands and resulted in the measure being referred again to the committee for redrafting.

Sufficient developed during the general discussion to show that the house was averse to sale of the lands in large bodies. This position was led by Mr. Murray, who stated that the democratic party favored the sale of the area, but that he was against the method of the bill proposed. He cautioned Oklahoma not to commit the error Texas did in making it possible for syndicates to place "dummies" on the land under the guise of homesteaders, only to pass title to a corporation or a land baron when the homestead claim was completed. Other speakers charged that the bill was "loaded" in favor of the school land lessee, while still others insisted that none of the lands should be disposed of during this session of the legislature.

The house passed finally the bill by Mr. Murray and Mr. Whitehurst for the inspection of hotels and boarding houses. County boards of health, and not a state officer, will make one inspection every six months, for which a fee is to be charged. The amendment making it unlawful to serve food or drink from a "vessel which contains a crack visible to the naked eye" was reconsidered and killed.

The senate passed finally without the emergency clause the bill by Senator Hattett prohibiting the employment for public work of relatives to the third degree. Terms of the bill apply to the executive, legislative, ministerial or judicial offices of the state and is extended to all counties, districts and cities. One of the penalties is removal from office of the appointive head. By omitting the emergency clause and existing violations will not be disturbed for ninety days after the legislature adjourns in event the bill becomes a law.

The senate advanced to a third reading the bill by Senator Franklin for the protection of employees. It is made a misdemeanor for corporations to compel persons to enter an agreement, written or verbal, not to become members of a labor organization, conditioned on such persons securing employment. Neither may employees be brought into the state by false pretenses as to the character of employment they are to perform.

New bills in the house were by Mr. McCants of Carter County for a graduated land tax and reference of the same to the people at the fall election, and by Mr. Whitehurst appropriating $150,000 to pay salaries of officers and employees of the state departments.

The appropriation committee of the house announced that this amount of money will relieve the salaried people, pending the passage of the general appropriation bill.

The senate gave second reading of its appropriation bill today and referred it to a committee.

Mr. Huddleston of Pontotoc county offered a bill in the house making Allen a separate court town in Pontotoc county.

Council Meeting.

Council met in called session Monday night, Mayor Harrison in the chair. All aldermen present except Alderman Leonard who has moved out of ward, which vacates his office.

Mayor Harrison appointed R. R. Johnson city scavenger, which was approved by the council. Dr. M. W. Ligon was appointed city physician and the council unanimously agreed to the same.

Action on appointment for assistant chief of police was deferred until next meeting.

Mr. Little was unanimously elected president of the council.

The mayor only appointed one permanent committee, the ordinance committee. Sims and Evans, the other member of this committee to be supplied later.

The next regular meeting will be next Monday, April 20th, at which time the mayor will fill all vacancies and make new appointments.

FLOODS IN OKLAHOMA; CROP DAMAGE $1,000,000

Muskogee, Ok., April 13.—Floods caused by the recent rains have delayed all railroad traffic. Two miles of track are inundated on the Frisco branch line near Melvin. A train was sent out from here to meet the incoming passenger today.

Women and children on the train were placed on hand cars and passed through the water by laborers, who at times walked to their waists. Seventy-five men passengers walked over a long hill.

The road tonight was abandoned. The Katy bridge at Canadian is said to be in danger.

The bridge of the Midland on the same stream is threatened.

The Arkansas is one foot above the danger mark and higher than it has been for twenty-five years.

It is estimated that newly planted crops to the amount of $1,000,000 have been destroyed.

Died at Center.

The wife of Dr. J. F. White of Center, died on the 7th of April and was buried at Center cemetery, funeral services conducted by Rev. Coggin. Sister White was a member of the Missionary Baptist church. She left undeniable evidence that she was going to rest. Her three sons and devoted husband were by her bed side when the end came. During her illness everything that could be done was done for her comfort.

A FRIEND.

Justice Court.

Constable Rainey brought in Noah Abbott from Bebee charged with using profane language. Abbott plead guilty in Justice Brown's court and was fined $5 and costs. This money goes to the school fund.

Burglars Loot Two Stores.

Mountain View, Ok., April 13.—Some time last night burglars entered the hardware store of Caldwell & Hollis and of the Bonebrake-Railback Hardware Company of this place, using dynamite in Caldwell & Hollis' place, and secured about $250 in cash.

They also took some tools and two shotguns at the Bonebrake store. The safe was not locked it was opened and $15 taken, also one target rifle.

The citizens have offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the burglars.

Roosevelt Issues Special Message.

Washington, April 13.—In a special message today vetoing a dam bill, President Roosevelt warned congress that there are pending in this session bills which propose to give away streams capable of developing 1,300,000 horsepower, whose production would cost annually 25,000,000 tons of coal, urged in vigorous terms the establishment of a policy, such as the filibustering minority in the house demands, which would safeguard the granting of bridge and dam privileges, and required the grantees to pay for them; and definitely announced a future policy on his part with regard to prompt utilization and construction privileges by refusing his signature to a bill giving an additional three years to the Rainey River Improvement Company within which to build a dam in the Rainey river.

That languid, lifeless feeling that comes with spring and early summer, can be quickly changed to a feeling of buoyancy and energy by the judicious use of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The Restorative is a genuine tonic to tired, run-down nerves, and but a few doses is needed to satisfy the user that Dr. Shoop's Restorative is actually reaching that tired spot. The indoor life of winter nearly always leads to sluggish bowels, and to sluggish circulation in general. The customary lack of exercise and outdoor air ties up the liver, stagnates the kidneys, and oft-times weakens the Heart's action. Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative a few weeks and all will be changed. A few days test will tell you that you are using the right remedy. You will easily and surely note the change from day to day. Sold by G. M. Ramsey.

STATE IS AFTER MINES.

OKLAHOMA PLAN TO ACQUIRE COAL AND ASPHALT TRACTS.

Commission is to Recommend Purchase of 450,000 Acres of Land from the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians.

Guthrie, Okla.—The purchase by the new state of the Choctaw and Chickasaw segregated coal and asphalt lands will be recommended in the report of the commission named by the constitutional convention to investigate the lands. This report is almost ready to be filed with the governor.

The lands, amounting to 450,000 acres, have been withdrawn from sale by congress and without congressional sanction the tribal governments are powerless to sell them. The commission will recommend that congress be asked to permit negotiations for the purchase of the lands by the state.

"It will become necessary, in all probability," the report will say, "for the state to issue bonds, and as the question as to the issuance of bonds must be submitted to the people at a general election, and as there will be no general election after this year until 1910, and as no great deal of progress can be made meantime until it is known whether the bonds for the purchase of the lands will be issued, your commission recommends that the proposition be, by the legislature, submitted to the people at the next general election, providing for the issuance of bonds in an amount not to exceed $10,000,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, to be used for the purchase of these lands, providing they can be purchased at a reasonable rate."

The value of the surface lands is estimated at not to exceed $8 an acre, and possibly less. In estimating the value of the coal deposits, the commission made no explorations of its own, and relied mainly on public documents and the testimony of such coal operators as could be induced to attend its hearings.

One estimate of the deposits was 2,000,000,000 tons, which, at the present rate, would require several hundred years of mining to be put on the market. Carl Scholz, manager of the mining properties of the Rock Island Railroad Company, fixed the coal values at $5,500,000, and the value of the surface lands at $3,600,000, making a total of approximately $9,000,000. Charles D. Walcott, director of the United States geological survey, was quoted as saying that the lands were worth anywhere between $5 and $40 an acre.

If these coal resources were controlled by the state the price of coal would be reduced one-third, the commission believes. This would increase the demand for coal. The commission has reliable information that the cost of mining coal in the Indian Territory district is from $1.25 to not exceeding $2 a ton, and that state ownership would put the best quality of coal on the home market at not more than $5 a ton. Because of the present monopoly the price is as high as $9 a ton.

RECIPE FOR PIE CRUST.

Care in its Preparation Is a Highly Important Matter.

Pastry flour made by the old process of grinding is usually considered best for pastry, but any good flour will answer. For the shortening, butter and lard, half and half, is best, though clarified drippings of beef, chicken or pork may be utilized. To make a good plain pie crust, allow for each pie that is to have two crusts a heaping cup sifted flour, a scant half cup shortening, a saltspoonful each salt and baking powder, and enough cold water to mix stiff.

Have all ingredients and utensils cold. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Then cut in the lard or rub in with the tips of the fingers, until the flour feels "mealy." Add cold water, a little at a time, to mix to a stiff dough, toss out on a lightly floured molding board and pat down to about half an inch in thickness. Flour the rolling pin, then with a light, deft touch roll out the crust into an oblong sheet. Put the butter on in little dabs here and there, sprinkle lightly with flour, roll over and over, turn half around, pat out and roll again. Then roll over and over like a jelly roll and divide in the center. If there is time, set these in the ice chest, each piece turned on end with the rings of pastry on top.

When hard and chilled, take out and roll one piece to fit the plate with an inch to spare. Double over, lift lightly and lay in the tin. Press down the center so there will be no air bubbles and let the edge of the crust come just to the edge of the plate. Brush the rim with cold water and dust the bottom crust lightly with the fingers dipped in flour or brush with the white of an egg to prevent soaking.

Roll out some of the paste into a strip half an inch wide and place on the edge. Turn in the filling and if an upper crust is to be used, as in the case of a mince or apple pie, wet the rim again before putting on the upper crust. Roll out the latter in the same way as the under.

Fold over and make several fancy slashes in the center to allow for the escape of steam, then lift onto the pie. Press the edges of the crust lightly but closely together and push the two crusts away from the edge of the plate which gives them a chance to expand. Bake in a moderate oven.

PRESERVED APPLES ARE GOOD.

How They May Be Made Ready for Immediate Use.

Pare and core as many apples as will cover the bottom of a preserve kettle, eight or nine large ones will fill a medium sized dish. Allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit.

Make a rich sirup, when it boils clear drop in the apples and the peel of a lemon cut thin. They should boil slowly, turning them over occasionally; if they are good they will keep their shape and look transparent.

About three-quarters of an hour will be long enough to cook them, when they look yellow and clear they are done.

Lift them into a dish sufficiently deep to hold the juice. When the fruit is done let the sirup boil a few minutes longer then pour it over the apples.

Ornament with a preserved green-gage on the top of each apple. Blanch sweet almonds and place them in a circle around the gage.

White Ribboners' Mince Pie.

For those who object to mince pies as usually made, on the score of their being non-temperance, the following excellent recipe is commended: To three bowls of chopped meat allow one bowl of suet, seven bowls of chopped apples, three bowls of seeded raisins, three bowls of sugar, a half pound of chopped prunes, a quarter pound of shredded citron, a pint of strong coffee, a quart of currant or grape jelly and a tablespoonful each of salt, cinnamon, allspice and cloves, with a teaspoonful each of mace and pepper.

Add the liquor in which the meat was boiled with the grated rind and juice of two lemons and a little vinegar to give the necessary tartness. Scald as soon as made and pack in close covered glass jars to prevent fermentation.

"Kitchen Minded."

"Kitchen minded" is an epithet applied to women who are too much engrossed with domestic affairs. The word is evidently meant as a reproach. No doubt there are women who give too much time to the kitchen, as there are others who give too little. Who will undertake to decide just how much time is enough? That a woman should grow to like the place in which she passes most of her time is not strange. She might become parlor-minded; but many, like George Eliot, enjoy a clean kitchen best of all.

Baked Cabbage.

An excellent way to utilize cold cabbage is to put it in a baking dish and pour over it sufficient dressing to cover, made in the proportion of one tablespoonful each of butter and flour to one cupful of milk. Pour over this one well beaten egg, and cover with bread crumbs dusted with melted butter. Bake 45 minutes.

When Icing Runs.

When boiled icing runs, as it will persist in doing if not taken off at exactly the right minute, it can be stiffened by putting the liquid, even after it has been mixed with the white of eggs, back on the stove for a few minutes. Set the dish on an asbestos mat and stir till the icing begins to look creamy.

BROKERS ARE LUCKY.

RISK NOTHING, CLEAR $125,000 ON GOTHAM BONDS.

Baldwins, of Boston, Make Their Bid Good After $4,000,000 Allotment—Receive Seven Offers for Option.

New York.—Charles A. Baldwin and W. A. Baldwin, brothers, of Boston, made a fortune in a day by bidding for more than $4,000,000 of the New York city bonds at 104. They have announced that they will accept the offer of a New York bond house of 107 for their allotment, which will make their clear profit on an investment of nothing $125,000.

Charles A. Baldwin is treasurer of the Massachusetts Loan and Guarantee Company, and said that after studying the bond issue, exempt from taxation, and should the Aldrich bill pass a good bank security for circulation, they decided there was a chance of good profit and made their bid. They have received seven offers for their option.

Stephen L. Tingley and A. E. Reid presented the Baldwin bid. With it was a check for $168,000, two per cent. of the bid, guaranteed by the Massachusetts Loan and Guarantee Company.

"We didn't know how we could raise $10 if we had to," said one of the brothers. When they received the offer of 107, however, they found no difficulty in getting a bank to take care of the check.

According to Boston dispatches, so far as is known, the brothers are the only men interested in the Boston institution. Charles A. Baldwin is said to have an interesting record as a bucket-shop and discretionary pool operator in various cities. After being connected with a wire and mail order bucket-shop, which failed in Boston 15 years ago, he went to Texas, but had a bucket-shop in Wall street here in 1899, which did not last long. He was later in the F. A. Rogers & Co. discretionary pool-house which failed one morning to open its doors. He was at various other times connected with firms here in Boston, and in January, 1906, was arrested in a civil action and lodged in the Ludlow street jail.

Comptroller Metz says he will try to have the New York city charter amended to protect the city from "straw" and "shoe-string" bids for bonds to be accompanied by certified checks on a New York bank or on one which clears through the New York clearing house. The law now requires a certified check on any solvent banking corporation.

Before Comptroller Metz made his announcement, a petition asking for amendment to the bond law was circulated in Wall street, to be presented to the comptroller. The object of the desired change is to eliminate from future awards of city bonds bids which some believe are not made in good faith or backed by substantial guarantee.

The Massachusetts check was honored by the National Shawmut bank of Boston.

JUDGE HAS FIGHTING DAY.

Resorts to His Fists Three Times in Seventeen Hours.

Joplin, Mo.—Judge Haywood Scott, recently appointed circuit judge by Gov. Folk, had three encounters here within 17 hours, ending at nine o'clock the other morning. None resulted seriously. At four o'clock the day before Scott and G. B. Young, vice president of the Miners' bank, disagreed about a rental contract of an office rented by Scott from Young, and the latter accused the judge of attempting sharp practices. Scott lost his temper and struck at Young, knocking his glass from his nose.

At eight o'clock next morning Scott met Young and offered apology for striking one of greater age than himself. Young refused to accept and, shaking his fist in the judge's face, told him that as soon as he was released from the physician's care he would administer a sound thrashing. Before the men came to blows they were calmed by the advice of bystanders.

An hour later Scott met J. J. Wolfe, city counselor, and Wolfe demanded an explanation of a statement by Scott on the bench. In reply Scott said: "You heard what I said," and Wolfe struck him on the side of the head with his half-closed fist. Scott proceeded to the courthouse.

May Be Largest Horse.

Watertown, S. D.—The largest horse in the world, so far as is known, was brought to Watertown by Sylvester Dory of this city, who traded a herd of Shetland ponies for him. The animal stands 81 inches high and weighs close to 3,000 pounds. He was raised by H. R. Carroll, a farmer living near Doland, in this state.

TO EXPLORE A MYSTIC CAVE.

Students Will Investigate Big Cavern in Interests of Science.

Sulphur, Okla.—Herman Douthitt, a member of Prof. Gould's class in geology, has written the owners of Mystic cave that the entire class, headed by Prof. Gould himself, will soon arrive in Sulphur equipped for a thorough and scientific exploration of this great and mysterious underground cavern.

They will come prepared to spend several days in the cave, and will bring with them collapsible boots, life preservers, electric torches and scientific apparatus. A part of the class partially explored the cave during the Christmas holidays. Having no boat and no firearms there were chambers they could not enter, and others that they dared not.

The boys will sail far down Mystic river, expecting to find caverns larger than the "River Chamber." The river becomes very deep after its passage from this chamber, but Prof. Gould and his class propose to launch their boats upon it and paddle far down the stream into a noisy and impenetrable darkness that no one has heretofore dared to enter.

The class will make a study of the animal life in the cave. A number of the white-eyed fish will be caught, and they will attempt to bag some of the animals or imps which inhabit the cave chamber. These animals have never been seen and it is not known how large they are or what form they have. When torches are brought into the cave chamber they set up unearthly, unhuman and impenetrable chattering in the dense and impenetrable darkness in the outer shore of the big lake. No one has yet dared to row across the lake. Shots fired at the animals or imps cause them to set up a chattering noise that is unspeakable and unbearable.

The "Cyclone Chamber," which no one has yet dared to enter, will be thoroughly investigated and explored by Prof. Gould and his class.

The Divorce Mill is Profitable.

Business Has Brought $5,000,000 to South Dakota.

Pierre, S. D.—In the annual report of the bureau of vital statistics it made plain the reason why South Dakota does not want to give up the divorce business.

The bureau's report shows that during the year 1907 a total of 552 divorces were granted in the state, of which 320 were to nonresidents, and it was a dull year in the divorce market, too.

The average spent by seekers for divorce during their six months' residence in South Dakota is not less than $200 a month and probably much higher, but estimating the average cost of a Dakota divorce, including the expenses of setting up a residence, payment of attorney and court costs at

$1,500, the state of South Dakota last year took in $480,000 for granting the 320 divorces to nonresidents.

While 1907 was decidedly bearish in the divorce trade, owing to the agitation in the state for repeal of the law, if the income for the last year is taken as an average, South Dakota has realized $5,000,000 from her divorce mill in the last decade.

This really is a low estimate, for most of those who come to South Dakota to be freed of chafing matrimonial ties are liberal spenders of money. Merchants send special orders for high-grade goods in anticipation of the divorce patronage, hotels fit up whole suites of rooms in the best of trapings to make the sojourn pleasant, while it is a regular business to furnish houses and rent them to unhappy wives for from $75 to $100 a month.

KING'S CIGARS ARE EXPENSIVE

"Smokes" for Ruler of England Made of Finest Tobacco.

New York.—The king of England has placed with a New York firm of tobacco brokers an order for 500 cigars, which, in point of price, will be slightly ahead of what the royal smoker paid two years ago, when his bill for 1,000 cigars was $3,000. For the 500 which are to be shipped from Havana in time to reach England at the beginning of the Easter holidays, the price will be $1,600.

"There is no exaggeration as to the price or the expense incurred," said a manager of a local company.

"The cost of the first 1,000 cigars was actually $3,000, and the margin of profit was exceedingly small, because the manufacturer was eager to gain the prestige of having served royalty. The cigars were eight inches in length and at the thickest part, in the middle, one inch in diameter. They were made of the finest Vuelta Abajo tobacco. Each leaf passed through the hands of two selectors and it required the examination of thousands of leaves to obtain those that were uniform in color, uniform in size and free from large veins.

"When the cigars were finished the workmen received 85 cents for each cigar. The names of the guests were lettered in gold leaf on the body of these high-class smokes and each was incased in a silken envelope. The thousand were packed in hermetically sealed cedar boxes and shipped to England.

To suffer much is to learn many languages, so as to understand everybody and be understood by all.—Madam Swetchine.

STARVES AMID HIS GOLD.

Rich Ohio Hermit is Taken Away to a Madhouse.

Youngstown, O.—With thousands of dollars hid away, his granaries filled to the bursting point, and his little dugout house well stocked with smoked hams, preserves, and many other good things to eat, Lewis Sadler, miser and hermit, starved himself into insanity. He is now in the state hospital in Massillon.

The other day his chattels were sold on his farm near New Buffalo, this county. The story that Sadler had hidden away some $25,000 in gold coin on his farm took hundreds of people to the scene of the auction sale conducted by county officers.

Charles Whitmore of Canfield purchased a bag of grain, paying for it ten cents. No one bid against him. He shook the bag and there was a mysterious jingle inside. Hastily it was opened and three glass jars which were found to contain $2,175 in gold were discovered. He at once turned the money over to Sadler's guardian, who conducted the sale. This is a part of the hidden fortune. The rest of the money is supposed to be buried some place about the farm, and it may never be found, as there are no hopes of Sadler recovering his mind.

FINGER NAILS ARE ADORNED.

Landscapes and Portraits Sketched with Indelible Ink.

Philadelphia.—Wang Bang of China-town has undoubtedly the most artistic finger nails in Philadelphia. They are long and pointy, and each nail is ornamented with a miniature picture of his native country. His thumbnail, being the largest, bears a remarkably good portrait of himself.

Wang drew the pictures many years ago with India ink and uses a composition which keeps them from wearing out. He used an extremely fine needle to draw the sketches, and they will perhaps last for life. Wang trims his nails so that they will make fitting framework for the pictures.

A number of other Chinamen in the city tried the same finger decoration, but they had to give it up as a hopeless task. Wang Bang, despite his noisy name, is a quiet Chinaman, and he will not give away the secret which enabled him to "landscape" his nails. Incidentally he earns a comfortable living by painting oil portraits.

He carries his "studio" with him and works in a different neighborhood every day.

Swamp Swallows Trestle.

Winsted, Conn.—When workmen employed by C. W. Blakeslee & Son on a trolley line from Woodbury, this county, to Waterbury, arrived at a swamp in Middlebury the other morning, where they had quit operations the night before, they found a temporary trestle, with the tracks upon it, missing, and trees on either side of where the structure once stood leaning as if they would fall at any moment.

Investigation disclosed the fact that the heavy timbers and everything that rested upon them had been swallowed up in the night. Ten thousand cubic feet of fill which had been dumped into the swamp had also disappeared

LAND BILL BACK TO COMMITTEE.

Property of School Department Before Oklahoma House in Considering Bill Proposing Sale.

Guthrie, Okla., April 13.—The school land question was before the Oklahoma House of Representatives for several hours today in the consideration of the committee's bill proposing to sell the state's public lands, and resulted in the measure being referred again to the committee for re-drafting.

Sufficient developed during the general discussion to show that the house was averse to sale of the lands in large bodies. This position was led by Mr. Murray, who stated that the democratic party favored the sale of the area, but that he was against the method of the bill proposed. He cautioned Oklahoma not to commit the error Texas did in making it possible for syndicates to place "dummies" on the land under the guise of homesteaders, only to pass title to a corporation or a land baron when the homestead claim was completed. Other speakers charged that the bill was "loaded" in favor of the school land lessee, while still others insisted that none of the lands should be disposed of during this session of the legislature.

The house passed finally the bill by Mr. Murray and Mr. Whitehurst for the inspection of hotels and boarding houses. County boards of health, and not a state officer, will make one inspection every six months, for which a fee is to be charged. The amendment making it unlawful to serve food or drink from a "vessel which contains a crack visible to the naked eye" was reconsidered and killed.

The senate passed finally without the emergency clause the bill by Senator Hatt, prohibiting the employment for public work of relatives to the third degree. Terms of the bill apply to the executive, legislative, ministerial or judicial offices of the state and is extended to all counties, districts and cities. One of the penalties is removal from office of the appointive head. By omitting the emergency clause and existing violations will not be disturbed for ninety days after the legislature adjourns in event the bill becomes a law.

The senate advanced to a third reading the bill by Senator Franklin for the protection of employees. It is made a misdemeanor for corporations to compel persons to enter an agreement, written or verbal, not to become members of a labor organization, conditioned on such persons securing employment. Neither may employees be brought into the state by false pretenses as to the character of employment they are to perform.

New bills in the house were by Mr. McCants of Carter County for a graduated land tax and reference of the same to the people at the fall election, and by Mr. Whitehurst appropriating $150,000 to pay salaries of officers and employees of the state departments.

The appropriation committee of the house announced that this amount of money will relieve the salaried people, pending the passage of the general appropriation bill.

The senate gave second reading of its appropriation bill today and referred it to a committee.

Mr. Huddleston of Pontotoc county offered a bill in the house making Allen a separate court town in Pontotoc county.

Council Meeting.

Council met in called session Monday night, Mayor Harrison in the chair. All aldermen present except Alderman Leonard who has moved out of ward, which vacates his office.

Mayor Harrison appointed R. R. Johnson city scavenger, which was approved by the council. Dr. M. W. Ligon was appointed city physician and the council unanimously agreed to the same.

Action on appointment for assistant chief of police was deferred until next meeting.

Mr. Little was unanimously elected president of the council. The mayor only appointed one permanent committee, the ordinance committee. Sims and Evans, the other member of this committee to be supplied later.

The next regular meeting will be next Monday, April 20th, at which time the mayor will fill all vacancies and make new appointments.

FLOODS IN OKLAHOMA; CROP DAMAGE $1,000,000

Muskogee, Ok., April 13.—Floods caused by the recent rains have delayed all railroad traffic. Two miles of track are inundated on the Frisco branch line near Melvin. A train was sent out from here to meet the incoming passenger today.

Women and children on the train were placed on hand cars and passed through the water by laborers, who at times walked to their waists. Seventy-five men passengers walked over a long hill.

The road tonight was abandoned. The Katy bridge at Canadian is said to be in danger.

The bridge of the Midland on the same stream is threatened.

The Arkansas is one foot above the danger mark and higher than it has been for twenty-five years.

It is estimated that newly planted crops to the amount of $1,000,000 have been destroyed.

Died at Center.

The wife of Dr. J. F. White of Center, died on the 7th of April and was buried at Center cemetery, funeral services conducted by Rev. Coggins. Sister White was a member of the Missionary Baptist church. She left undeniable evidence that she was going to rest. Her three sons and devoted husband were by her bed side when the end came. During her illness everything that could be done was done for her comfort. A FRIEND

Justice Court.

Burglars Loot Two Stores.

Mountain View, Ok., April 13.—Some time last night burglars entered the hardware store of Caldwell & Hollis and of the Bonebrake-Railsback Hardware Company of this place, using dynamite in Caldwell & Hollis' place, and secured about $250 in cash.

They also took some tools and two shotguns at the Bonebrake store. The safe was not locked. It was opened and $15 taken, also one target rifle.

The citizens have offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the burglars.

Roosevelt Issues Special Message.

Washington, April 13.—In a special message today vetoing a dam bill, President Roosevelt warned congress that there are pending in this session bills which propose to give away streams capable of developing 1,300,000 horsepower, whose production would cost annually 25,000,000 tons of coal, urged in vigorous terms the establishment of a policy, such as the filibustering minority in the house demands, which would safeguard the granting of bridge and dam privileges, and required the grantees to pay for them; and definitely announced a future policy on his part with regard to prompt utilization and construction privileges by refusing his signature to a bill giving an additional three years to the Rainey River Improvement Company within which to build a dam in the Rainey river.

STATE IS AFTER MINES.

OKLAHOMA PLAN TO ACQUIRE COAL AND ASPHALT TRACTS.

Commission is to Recommend Purchase of 450,000 Acres of Land from the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians.

Guthrie, Okla.—The purchase by the new state of the Choctaw and Chickasaw segregated coal and asphalt lands will be recommended in the report of the commission named by the constitutional convention to investigate the lands. This report is almost ready to be filed with the governor.

The lands, amounting to 450,000 acres, have been withdrawn from sale by congress and without congressional sanction the tribal governments are powerless to sell them. The commission will recommend that congress be asked to permit negotiations for the purchase of the lands by the state.

"It will become necessary, in all probability," the report will say, "for the state to issue bonds, and as the question as to the issuance of bonds must be submitted to the people at a general election, and as there will be no general election after this year until 1910, and as no great deal of progress can be made meantime until it is known whether the bonds for the purchase of the lands will be issued, your commission recommends that the proposition be, by the legislature, submitted to the people at the next general election, providing for the issuance of bonds in an amount not to exceed $10,000,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary, to be used for the purchase of these lands, providing they can be purchased at a reasonable rate."

The value of the surface lands is estimated at not to exceed $3 an acre, and possibly less. In estimating the value of the coal deposits, the commission made no explorations of its own, and relied mainly on public documents and the testimony of such coal operators as could be induced to attend its hearings.

One estimate of the deposits was 2,000,000,000 tons, which, at the present rate, would require several hundred years of mining to be put on the market. Carl Scholz, manager of the mining properties of the Rock Island Railroad Company, fixed the coal values at $5,500,000, and the value of the surface lands at $3,500,000, making a total of approximately $9,000,000. Charles D. Walcott, director of the United States geological survey, was quoted as saying that the lands were worth anywhere between $5 and $40 an acre.

If these coal resources were controlled by the state the price of coal would be reduced one-third, the commission believes. This would increase the demand for coal. The commission has reliable information that the cost of mining coal in the Indian Territory district is from $1.25 to not exceeding $2 a ton, and that state ownership would put the best quality of coal on the home market at not more than $5 a ton. Because of the present monopoly the price is as high as $9 a ton.

RECIPE FOR PIE CRUST.

Care in its Preparation is a Highly Important Matter.

Pastry flour made by the old process of grinding is usually considered best for pastry, but any good flour will answer. For the shortening, butter and lard, half and half, is best, though clarified drippings of beef, chicken or pork may be utilized. To make a good plain pie crust, allow for each pie that is to have two crusts a heaping cup sifted flour, a scant half cup shortening, a saltspoonful each salt and baking powder, and enough cold water to mix stiff.

Have all ingredients and utensils cold. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Then cut in the lard or rub in with the tips of the fingers, until the flour feels "mealy." Add cold water, a little at a time, to mix to a stiff dough, toss out on a lightly floured molding board and pat down to about half an inch in thickness. Flour the rolling pin, then with a light, deft touch roll out the crust into an oblong sheet. Put the butter on in little dabs here and there, sprinkle lightly with flour, roll over and over, turn half around, pat out and roll again. Then roll over and over like a jelly roll and divide in the center. If there is time, set these in the ice chest, each piece turned on end with the rings of pastry on top.

When hard and chilled, take out and roll one piece to fit the plate with an inch to spare. Double over, lift lightly and lay in the tin. Press down the center so there will be no air bubbles and let the edge of the crust come just to the edge of the plate. Brush the rim with cold water and dust the bottom crust lightly with the fingers dipped in flour or brush with the white of an egg to prevent soaking.

Roll out some of the paste into a strip half an inch wide and place on the edge. Turn in the filling and if an upper crust is to be used, as in the case of a mince or apple pie, wet the rim again before putting on the upper crust. Roll out the latter in the same way as the under.

Fold over and make several fancy slashes in the center to allow for the escape of steam, then lift onto the pie. Press the edges of the crust lightly but closely together and push the two crusts away from the edge of the plate which gives them a chance to expand. Bake in a moderate oven.

PRESERVED APPLES ARE GOOD.

How They May Be Made Ready for Immediate Use.

Pare and core as many apples as will cover the bottom of a preserve kettle, eight or nine large ones will fill a medium sized dish. Allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit.

Make a rich sirup, when it boils clear drop in the apples and the peel of a lemon cut thin. They should boil slowly, turning them over occasionally; if they are good they will keep their shape and look transparent.

About three-quarters of an hour will be long enough to cook them, when they look yellow and clear they are done.

Lift them into a dish sufficiently deep to hold the juice. When the fruit is done let the sirup boil a few minutes longer then pour it over the apples.

Ornament with a preserved green-gage on the top of each apple. Blanch sweet almonds and place them in a circle around the gage.

White Ribboners' Mince Pie.

For those who object to mince pies as usually made, on the score of their being non-temperance, the following excellent recipe is recommended: To three bowls of chopped meat allow one bowl of suet, seven bowls of chopped apples, three bowls of seeded raisins, three bowls of sugar, a half pound of chopped prunes, a quarter pound of shredded citron, a pint of strong coffee, a quart of currant or grape jelly and a tablespoonful each of salt, cinnamon, allspice and cloves, with a teaspoonful each of mace and pepper.

Add the liquor in which the meat was boiled with the grated rind and juice of two lemons and a little vinegar to give the necessary tartness. Scald as soon as made and pack in close covered glass jars to prevent fermentation.

"Kitchen Minded."

"Kitchen minded" is an epithet applied to women who are too much engrossed with domestic affairs. The word is evidently meant as a reproach. No doubt there are women who give too much time to the kitchen, as there are others who give too little. Who will undertake to decide just how much time is enough? That a woman should grow to like the place in which she passes most of her time is not strange. She might become parlor-minded; but many, like George Eliot, enjoy a clean kitchen best of all.

Baked Cabbage.

An excellent way to utilize cold cabbage is to put it in a baking dish and pour over it sufficient dressing to cover, made in the proportion of one tablespoonful each of butter and flour to one cupful of milk. Pour over this one well beaten egg, and cover with bread crumbs dusted with melted butter. Bake 45 minutes.

When Icing Runs.

When boiled icing runs, as it will persist in doing if not taken off at exactly the right minute, it can be stiffened by putting the liquid, even after it has been mixed with the white of egg, back on the stove for a few minutes. Set the dish on an asbestos mat and stir till the icing begins to look creamy.

BROKERS ARE LUCKY.

RISK NOTHING, CLEAR $125,000 ON GOTHAM BONDS.

Baldwins, of Boston, Make Their Bid Good After $4,000,000 Allotment—Receive Seven Offers for Option.

New York.—Charles A. Baldwin and W. A. Baldwin, brothers, of Boston, made a fortune in a day by bidding for more than $4,000,000 of the New York city bonds at 104. They have announced that they will accept the offer of a New York bond house of 107 for their allotment, which will make their clear profit on an investment of nothing $125,000.

Charles A. Baldwin is treasurer of the Massachusetts Loan and Guarantee Company, and said that after studying the bond issue, exempt from taxation, and should the Aldrich bill pass a good bank security for circulation, they decided there was a chance of good profit and made their bid. They have received seven offers for their option.

Stephen L. Tingley and A. E. Reid presented the Baldwin bid. With it was a check for $165,000, two per cent. of the bid, guaranteed by the Massachusetts Loan and Guarantee Company.

"We didn't know how we could raise $10 if we had to," said one of the brothers. When they received the offer of 107, however, they found no difficulty in getting a bank to take care of the check.

According to Boston dispatches, so far as is known, the brothers are the only men interested in the Boston institution. Charles A. Baldwin is said to have an interesting record as a bucket-shop and discretionary pool operator in various cities. After being connected with a wire and mail order bucket-shop, which failed in Boston 15 years ago, he went to Texas, but had a bucket-shop in Wall street here in 1899, which did not last long. He was later in the F. A. Rogers & Co. discretionary pool-house which failed one morning to open its doors. He was at various other times connected with firms here in Boston, and in January, 1906, was arrested in a civil action and lodged in the Ludlow street jail.

Comptroller Metz says he will try to have the New York city charter amended to protect the city from "straw" and "shoe-string" bids for bonds to be accompanied by certified checks on a New York bank or on one which clears through the New York clearing house. The law now requires a certified check on any solvent banking corporation.

Before Comptroller Metz made his announcement, a petition asking for amendment to the bond law was circulated in Wall street, to be presented to the comptroller. The object of the desired change is to eliminate from future awards of city bonds bids which some believe are not made in good faith or backed by substantial guarantee.

The Massachusetts check was honored by the National Shawmut bank of Boston.

JUDGE HAS FIGHTING DAY.

Reports to His Fists Three Times in Seventeen Hours.

Joplin, Mo.—Judge Haywood Scott, recently appointed circuit judge by Gov. Folk, had three encounters here within 17 hours, ending at nine o'clock the other morning. None resulted seriously. At four o'clock the day before Scott and G. B. Young, vice president of the Miners' bank, disagreed about a rental contract of an office rented by Scott from Young, and the latter accused the judge of attempting sharp practices. Scott lost his temper and struck at Young, knocking his glass from his nose.

At eight o'clock next morning Scott met Young and offered apology for striking one of greater age than himself. Young refused to accept and, shaking his fist in the judge's face, told him that as soon as he was released from the physician's care he would administer a sound thrashing. Before the men came to blows they were calmed by the advice of bystanders.

An hour later Scott met J. J. Wolfe, city counselor, and Wolfe demanded an explanation of a statement by Scott on the bench. In reply Scott said: "You heard what I said," and Wolfe struck him on the side of the head with his half-closed fist. Scott proceeded to the courthouse.

May Be Largest Horse.

Watertown, S. D.—The largest horse in the world, so far as is known, was brought to Watertown by Sylvester Dory of this city, who traded a herd of Shetland ponies for him. The animal stands 81 inches high and weighs close to 3,000 pounds. He was raised by H. R. Carroll, a farmer living near Doland, in this state.

TO EXPLORE A MYSTIC CAVE.

Students Will Investigate Big Cavern in Interests of Science.

Sulphur, Okla.—Herman Douthitt, a member of Prof. Gould's class in geology, has written the owners of Mystic cave that the entire class, headed by Prof. Gould himself, will soon arrive in Sulphur equipped for a thorough and scientific exploration of this great and mysterious underground cavern.

They will come prepared to spend several days in the cave, and will bring with them collapsible boots, life preservers, electric torches and scientific apparatus. A part of the class partially explored the cave during the Christmas holidays. Having no boat and no firearms there were chambers they could not enter, and others that they dared not.

The boys will sail far down Mystic river, expecting to find caverns larger than the "River Chamber." The river becomes very deep after its passage from this chamber, but Prof. Gould and his class propose to launch their boats upon it and paddle far down the stream into a noisy and impenetrable darkness that no one has heretofore dared to enter.

The class will make a study of the animal life in the cave. A number of the white-eyed fish will be caught, and they will attempt to bag some of the animals or imps which inhabit the cave chamber. These animals have never been seen and it is not known how large they are or what form they have. When torches are brought into the cave chamber they set up unearthly, unhuman and impenetrable chattering in the dense and impenetrable darkness in the outer shore of the big lake. No one has yet dared to row across the lake. Shots fired at the animals or imps cause them to set up a chattering noise that is unspeakable and unbearable.

"The 'Cyclone Chamber,' which no one has yet dared to enter, will be thoroughly investigated and explored by Prof. Gould and his class.

STARVES AMID HIS GOLD.

Rich Ohio Hermit is Taken Away to a Madhouse.

Youngstown, O.—With thousands of dollars hid away, his granaries filled to the bursting point, and his little dugout house well stocked with smoked hams, preserves, and many other good things to eat, Lewis Sadler, miser and hermit, starved himself into insanity. He is now in the state hospital in Massillon.

The other day his chattels were sold on his farm near New Buffalo, this county. The story that Sadler had hidden away some $25,000 in gold coin on his farm took hundreds of people to the scene of the auction sale conducted by county officers.

Charles Whitmore of Canfield purchased a bag of grain, paying for it ten cents. No one bid against him. He shook the bag and there was a mysterious jingle inside. Hastily it was opened and three glass jars which were found to contain $2,175 in gold were discovered. He at once turned the money over to Sadler's guardian, who conducted the sale. This is a part of the hidden fortune. The rest of the money is supposed to be buried some place about the farm, and it may never be found, as there are no hopes of Sadler recovering his mind.

FINGER NAILS ARE ADORNED.

Landscapes and Portraits Sketched with Indelible Ink.

Philadelphia.—Wang Bang of Chinatown has undoubtedly the most artistic finger nails in Philadelphia. They are long and pointy, and each nail is ornamented with a miniature picture of his native country. His thumbnail, being the largest, bears a remarkably good portrait of himself.

Wang drew the pictures many years ago with India ink and uses a composition which keeps them from wearing out. He used an extremely fine needle to draw the sketches, and they will perhaps last for life. Wang trims his nails so that they will make fitting framework for the pictures.

A number of other Chinamen in the city tried the same finger decoration, but they had to give it up as a hopeless task. Wang Bang, despite his noisy name, is a quiet Chinaman, and he will not give away the secret which enabled him to "landscape" his nails. Incidentally he earns a comfortable living by painting oil portraits.

He carries his "studio" with him and works in a different neighborhood every day.

Swamp Swallows Trestle.

Winsted, Conn.—When workmen employed by C. W. Binkeslee & Son on a trolley line from Woodbury, this county, to Waterbury, arrived at a swamp in Middlebury the other morning, where they had quit operations the night before, they found a temporary trestle, with the tracks upon it, missing, and trees on either side of where the structure once stood leaning as if they would fall at any moment.

Investigation disclosed the fact that the heavy timbers and everything that rested upon them had been swallowed up in the night. Ten thousand cubic feet of fill which had been dumped into a swamp had also disappeared.

The Divorce Mill is Profitable.

Business Has Brought $5,000,000 to South Dakota.

Pierre, S. D.—In the annual report of the bureau of vital statistics is made plain the reason why South Dakota does not want to give up the divorce business.

"The bureau's report shows that during the year 1907 a total of 552 divorces were granted in the state, of which 320 were to nonresidents, and it was a dull year in the divorce market, too.

The average spent by seekers for divorce during their six months' residence in South Dakota is not less than $200 a month and probably much higher, but estimating the average cost of a Dakota divorce, including the expenses of setting up a residence, payment of attorney and court costs at

$1,500, the state of South Dakota last year took in $480,000 for granting the 320 divorces to nonresidents.

While 1907 was decidedly bearish in the divorce trade, owing to the agitation in the state for repeal of the law, if the income for the last year is taken as an average, South Dakota has realized $5,000,000 from her divorce mill in the last decade.

This really is a low estimate, for most of those who come to South Dakota to be freed of chafing matrimonial ties are liberal spenders of money. Merchants send special orders for high-grade goods in anticipation of the divorce patronage, hotels fit up whole suites of rooms in the best of trapings to make the sojourn pleasant, while it is a regular business to furnish houses and rent them to unhappy wives for from $75 to $100 a month.

KING'S CIGARS ARE EXPENSIVE

"Smokes" for Ruler of England Made of Finest Tobacco.

New York.—The king of England has placed with a New York firm of tobacco brokers an order for 500 cigars, which, in point of price, will be slightly ahead of what the royal smoker paid two years ago, when his bill for 1,000 cigars was $3,000. For the 500 which are to be shipped from Havana in time to reach England at the beginning of the Easter holidays, the price will be $1,600.

"There is no exaggeration as to the price or the expense incurred," said a manager of a local company.

"The cost of the first 1,000 cigars was actually $3,000, and the margin of profit was exceedingly small, because the manufacturer was eager to gain the prestige of having served royalty. The cigars were eight inches in length and at the thickest part, in the middle, one inch in diameter. They were made of the finest Vuelta Abajo tobacco. Each leaf passed through the hands of two selectors and it required the examination of thousands of leaves to obtain those that were uniform in color, uniform in size and free from large veins.

"When the cigars were finished the workmen received 85 cents for each cigar. The names of the guests were lettered in gold leaf on the body of these high-class smokes and each was incased in a silken envelope. The thousand were packed in hermetically sealed cedar boxes and shipped to England.

To suffer much is to learn many languages, so as to understand everybody and be understood by all.—Madam Swetchine.

GOVERNORS MEET IN CONFERENCE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DELIVERS NOTABLE ADDRESS TO STATE EXECUTIVES.

NATION'S VITAL PROBLEM

Present Position of Republic Among Countries of World Due to Its Natural Advantages, He Says.

Washington, May 13.—President Roosevelt delivered a notable address at the conference of Governors of the United States on the question of conserving the resources of the nation. President Roosevelt's speech was practically an outline of his ideas on the subject and he made suggestions as to the method of handling the question, which he characterized as one of vital importance to the Nation's future existence. His address follows: Governors of the Several States and Gentlemen: I welcome you to this conference at the White House. You have come hither at my request so that we may join together to consider the question of the conservation and use of the great fundamental sources of wealth of this nation. So vital is this question that for the first time in our history the chief executive officers of the States separately and of the Nation, together forming the nation, have met to consider it.

With the governors come men from each state chosen for their special acquaintance with the terms of the problem that is before us. Among them are experts in natural resources and representatives of national organizations concerned in the development and use of these resources; the senators and representatives in congress; the supreme court, the cabinet and the inland waterways commission have likewise been invited to the conference, which is therefore national in a peculiar sense.

Points in President's Speech.

The conservation of natural resources is the weightiest problem now before the nation.

Every step of the progress of mankind is marked by the discovery and use of natural resources previously unused.

Of late the rapidity of the progress of industrial progress has increased at such a rate that more space has been actually covered during the century and a quarter occupied by our national life than during the preceding six thousand years, that taken back to the earliest monuments of Egypt, to the earliest cities of the Babylonian plain.

The republic's growth has been due to the rapid development, and alas, that it should be said to the rapid destruction of our natural resources.

The prosperity of our people depends directly on the energy and intelligence with which our natural resources are used.

Ada's New Law Firm.

Judge Charles T. Barney, formerly of Burlington, Vermont, and Messrs. W. D. Hufar and A. M. Croxton, both of whom are so well and favorably known that they require no introduction to our readers, have formed a partnership for the practice of law, under the firm name of Barney, Hufar & Croxton, and will have offices in the Duncan Block, in this city.

In this connection, we clip from the Burlington Daily Free Press, the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the Bar Association of Chittenden County, Vermont, at a banquet given by that Association in honor of Judge Barney, shortly before his removal to Oklahoma:

"Resolved, The members of Chittenden County Bar Association learn with deep regret that Brother Charles T. Barney is soon to remove from this city.

In severing his professional relations with this association and with the bar of this county and state we assure him of our personal esteem and of our appreciation of the worth of his fellowship.

We here record our recognition of his excellent legal attainments and his unblemished personal character, and we bear witness to his life of honor and integrity.

He has been an active and useful member of this association, modest in manner, faithful in service.

In his new field of labor we bespeak for him a cordial reception. The bar before which he shall practice will be enriched by his ripe scholarship in the law, and the state of his adoption will gain a high minded citizen.

The best wishes of his brethren go with him, and, as we bid him adieu, we assure him that we shall hold his friendship, and his professional and personal worth, in honored remembrance."

THE ICE FACTORY.

Plant Nearly Ready Will Begin Delivering Ice About Next Wednesday.

Mr. E. H. Frick, general manager of the ice plant returned yesterday from Kansas City, Mo., where he has been to hurry in supplies so as to get the plant started at the very earliest moment. We are advised that the company will begin the delivery of ice on next Wednesday morning if all supplies arrive as expected. We are sorry to note that they will not be able to get their wagons until about the 28th of this month on account of so many orders being ahead of theirs in the Beggs wagon works in Kansas City where they are being built.

However, they will hire wagons and make deliveries and expect by the time their own wagons and teams arrive they will have everything well in hand. The plant expects to take care of Ada first and will always try and keep a surplus of ice on hand in case of emergency, but should any thing happen they have arranged to get all the ice needed. The people of Ada are to be congratulated on securing such men as Mr. Frick as a citizen and the ice company on securing him as manager.

High Water.

E. C. Tally returned last night from an extended trip to Texas. Mr. Tally says between Ada and Atoka the rain was so heavy that the entire track of the Katy was under water in places and it was necessary to run an engine ahead of the passenger train. This accounts for the train being about five hours late.

RESTRICTED BILL PASSES

PUTS SEVEN MILLION ACRES OF LAND ON MARKET.

TO CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Oklahoma Delegation Will Endeavor to Make Bill Include Allotment of Half Bloods.

Washington, May 13.—The bill removing restrictions from lands of the Five Civilized Tribes of Oklahoma, as amended by the senate committee on Indian affairs and reported by Senator Owen, was passed by the senate today, as recommended by the committee. The measure, having been amended after passing the house, will now go to a conference committee and the Oklahoma delegation will attempt before that committee to have the bill raise the limit so as to include half-bloods and will recommend other minor amendments.

The original bill provided that restrictions should be removed from all lands, including homesteads, of allottees as of less than half blood but the senate committee amended it so as to extend to Indians of quarter or less than quarter blood and thus reduced the total from ten million to seven million acres. This amendment leaves Congressman Carter, a restricted Indian.

All homesteads of mixed blood Indians having one-quarter or more than one-quarter Indian blood, including minors, and all allotted lands of enrolled living full-bloods shall not be subject to alienation, contract to sell, power of attorney, or any other incumbrance prior to April 26, 1913, except that the secretary of the interior may remove such restrictions under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.

DISTRICT COURT.

The Dr. Breco Murder Trial Given to the Jury.

About 11 o'clock this morning the Dr. Breco case was given to the jury. This is one of the most interesting trials ever tried in the Ada court house. Over 40 witnesses were subpoenaed and 20 testified.
County Attorney Wimbish and Judge H. M. Furman ably represented the state, while Attorneys Crawford &
Boles and W. L. Cruce and J. B.
Champion of Ardmore represented the defendant. At the time of going to press the jury was still out.

It is freely predicted on the streets that it will be a hung jury.

Locate Lake of Oil.

Tulsa, Okla., May 16.—Five miles south and west of Glenn Pool, on the Korndorfer lease, the Prairie Oil and Gas company today drilled in at a depth of 2,340 feet, a well of high grade oil, offsetting another big well at the same depth, producing the same grade of oil. This strike is remarkable in that both these wells are at least 500 feet deeper than wells in the Glenn Pool and reveal entirely new sand with every indication that this entire country is underlaid with a lake of high grade oil at a depth until now never discovered. It is possible that many if not all wells in the Creek oil fields will in time be drilled to the new sand.

Prisoner Captured.

Robert Graves who escaped from the officers a few nights ago at the county jail was recaptured by the city marshal of Coalgate, yesterday and returned to jail today. Deputy John Kitchens and Constable Dillard assisted in the capture. Graves tells an amusing story of how the officers in looking for him walked all around him. He was under a bridge near the Frisco depot and Walter Goens stopped immediately over him making inquiry about him and he heard the whole conversation. He remained under the bridge until after dark.

Railroad Assessments and Railroad Passes.

Editor Frank Frantz, while campaigning for governor last fall, on the republican ticket, was treated very nicely by the railroad companies of the state. When Secretary Garfield just happened to drop down here and wanted to make a tour of the eastern half of the state, the presidents of the Santa Fe, Rock Island, the Frisco and the Katy, each, in turn, placed their private car at the disposal of the secretary of the interior and the republican candidate. The latter also took and used annual passes over the various lines of railroad.

Last year the republican board of equalization, with Gov. Frank Frantz as its chairman, assessed the main line of the Santa Fe railroad at $5,400 per mile.

The railroads of Oklahoma did not take very kindly to C. N. Haskell, the democratic candidate for governor last fall. No private cars for him. The best he was allowed to do was to pay his fare and take his chances with the other passengers. Even when so small a favor as the stopping of a through train at a way station was asked of the division superintendent of one of the railroads, in order that the democratic candidate might be able to keep an appointment without taking a twenty-five mile drive, it was flatly refused.

The state board of equalization of the state of Oklahoma, composed of democratic officials, of which Gov. C. N. Haskell is chairman, assessed the main line of the Santa Fe railroad at $45,000 per mile

BY BOY NORTON.

feet. And her appeals were seconded by those of the officers who feared for the physical strength of this man on whom so much depended, and who would have guarded him as a precious jewel of untold worth. He protested at first, and then, like one waking from a dream and suddenly conscious of a great weariness, made no objection when the rear admiral, who now looked like a workman, put his hat upon his head and tendered him his coat. He permitted them to throw it over his shoulders, and finally, with a look of infinite satisfaction at the growing structure before him, took his daughter's arm and tramped away. He was an old man again, yielding the tribute of age to the toil of youth. They boarded the boat and sought their cabins; but even as they retired there came to them through the open portholes, like a lullaby, the sounds of unrelenting labor intermingled with the lap of waves on the coral beach. The first creative step toward a national victory and supremacy had been taken in a day, even while the war cloud across western seas was gathering strength for its overcast; and, waiting, wondering, and expectant, the world was unaware.

CHAPTER XV. The Great Discovery.

From the shore came a dull, moaning sound, now rising, now falling, but incessant, as if some gigantic animal, stricken and suffering, was shrieking the anguish of its death throes to the solitudes of the keys and the waste of waters round them. The frightened birds took flight to the north to escape the weird monotone, and the timid animals of the forest covered in fear; but the men of the island looked at one another exultantly, with mutual congratulations on the rapidity of their work. The blast furnace which was to cast the plates was being blown in.

Days and nights of unrelenting toil had followed that first landing; machine shops had been completely installed, power plants perfected, and buildings for the men erected; additional supplies had been received; and another gunboat, the Columbia, augmented the patrol which passed ceaselessly round the keys, guarding their secret and warning inquisitive fishermen to avoid the waters; corps of expert smelting men from the mines of the west had joined the colony—and all for this, the casting of the first plate, which was to take place this day.

In the assay rooms there had been the constant testing of crude metals, and apportioning them and discarding those which were inferior. Trained hands were those that worked over the bucking boards and manipulated the delicate scales which would register the tiniest mark of a lead pencil with as great accuracy as they would a pound weight. Everywhere about the plant were men who wrought with precision and interest, bound together in the great enterprise until differences in station were forgotten and all were as a family praying for success.

"Old Bill" Roberts, assisted by his daughter, had permitted no foot but theirs to enter the room where his apparatus was installed, and no hand but theirs to touch its complicated mechanism. With the love of a creator he had spent the last hours fondling its cold, unresponsive parts and adjusting it, and then stood watched, as a mother watches her firstborn, the initial movement of great mastery which was to carry to all the world but her, a Norma.

Engineers and officers from all parts of the plant, warned that the crucial test was at hand, gathered round the door of the innermost room, until invited in by the inventor, and then slowly entered and found standing places at a safe distance from the intricate mass, whose polished knobs, twisted bars and gleaming tubes seemed to them a tangled riddle. Norma, garbed in the stained khaki wrapper which she wore in the laboratory at home, hovered here and there round the apparatus, lightly trying an adjustment or closely inspecting a joint, her face grave, calm, and self-possessed. Her father, his thin old face drawn into a scowl of concentration, busied himself likewise, and made the final connections. So careful was he that he even inspected the duplicate apparatus which stood as a reserve at the other end of a casting mold, but which it was not his intention to use except in case of emergency. Satisfied that all was in readiness, he beckoned to two assistants, who trundled in the first composite plate and deposited it in its bed. He made the connection with the electrodes in a few minutes' deft work, and then straightened up and looked about the room, where all was still and expectant.

The wondering engineers saw him wave his daughter back a short distance as though fearing for her safety, watched him take a final look over his appliance, and then throw a switch. Brilliant streaks of purple, of unknown reds and glaring whites, raced each other in quick succession through the tubes. Little indicators here and there sparked out malevolently, and the machine seemed to leap, strain and groan with a life of its own, uncanny and mysterious because of its silence. The group of men peered curiously at the plate, saw it glow a dull red, pass the cherry stage, to a dull pigeon blue, and then suddenly burst into a gleaming mass of iridescent white. "Fusion!" one of the engineers whispered to a man beside him. "He has fused that plate in less time than it could be done by any means I ever heard of. That is the way he metamorphoses his metal."

The rays died out, the apparatus stopped its quivering, and the inventor stood intently watching the now cooling metal. Within the laboratory all was silence. From the adjoining buildings came the regular sound of hammers, and from somewhere off toward the cabins a man's voice was raised in a song of soldiery. The sheet of metal lost its color and became dark. "Old Bill" Roberts pressed a button above his head, and cooling sprays began dissipating themselves over the surface, sending up brief splutterings and clouds of rapidly diminishing steam.

"It's cool enough now to handle," he said in an oddly constrained tone of voice, turning to the engineers, "and if some of you will help me carry it to the testing tank you may see me prove the first plate on which hangs the fate of our country."

In an awed hush of expectancy they all volunteered; but only three men were needed to hold it while it was attached to the great arms which were to revolve it in the water and demonstrate its resistance. The inventor threw a switch, and the sheet began to move. Before him was a dial, and beneath it a scale of friction pulls showing the resistance offered by normal metal. He fastened his eyes on the indicator with a look of strained watchfulness. Slowly the needle point swung round as the arms gained the maximum of speed, and then it came to a standstill, while a look of doubt and perplexity crept over the scientist's face.

"Norm," he called, huskily—Norm! Was everything all right? Is everything working true?"

She took a step behind him, and with a look no less worried than his own stared at the dials indicating the speed of revolution and the scale of resistance. "Yes, father," she replied, gently, "everything is all right." She put her arm over his shoulder as if to shield him. "But something must have gone wrong somewhere else. Come away now and let us think it over."

She turned to the waiting officers behind and looked them calmly in their faces, while the inventor, dazed and uncomprehending, ran his fingers through his shock of white hair and gazed at the telltale dials as if hypnotized by two staring eyes.

"Gentlemen," she said, "the first experiment is a failure!" Those among them who had been slightly skeptical smiled at one another, while those whose belief had been more firm looked sympathetically at this slip of a girl, who faced them all in steady defiance, her trust in her father, herself and their invention unshaken and unflinching.

"You, Mr. Jenkins," she said, addressing one of the engineers, "are yourself a scientist and an experimentalist. You of all present know how easy it is for a tiny mistake to rob delicate work of definite result." There was a note of appeal in her voice that reached them all.

As if with one accord they rushed forward, grasping her hand and surrounding her father, giving them words of encouragement.

It was the gruff voice of the old admiral which aroused them to renewed action. "Fshaw, Bill! That's nothing," he growled. "Here! We've got more plates cast. Throw another on, and give it a try-out. Wake up, man! Wake up! We've got to make it go!"

Jenkins and two others rushed to the adjoining room and brought in a second slab of metal, and the old inventor, giving himself a shake as if pulling back from the very vortex of despair, with trembling hands placed the sheet of insulation and made the new connections with the plate.

"Norm," he almost whispered, "you look it over and turn the current on this time. Somehow my eyes seem to have gone back on me."

Again they watched from a distance the steady movements of the assistant, who without a tremor threw on the current, held it in leash, and directed it as if within her hand she held the clutch of a friend. Once more they saw the metal cool, the sprays turned on, and then came a dull, grinding, riving sound, and a column of dust shot up into the air and belled out over the room. They saw her fall back unconscious as if from some sudden shock, and instinctively sprang to her aid.

In mortal fear that some disaster had overtaken her, some unknown injury from that apparatus whose voltage was as deadly as that which sweeps through a murderer's chair, they picked her up and carried her out into one of the draughting rooms and laid her limp form on a table.

Her father in a burst of terrible anxiety tore open her corsage and ran his hand over her heart. "She's not dead!" he whispered, hoarsely. "She's been knocked out by a wild current or something I don't understand."

A long breath of relief encircled the room. Not until she recovered consciousness and sat weakly up was the suspense mitigated.

"Feel better, little girl?" the old admiral asked, and the others pressed forward with solicitous inquiries. She looked at them for a moment, regained her mental control, and answered: "Yes, I'm all right now; but don't mind me. What of the plate?"

They smiled at one another, as it dawned upon them that the plate had been forgotten. It was manifestly unfair that she of all others should not share with them the first knowledge that had been accomplished; so as a guard of honor they supported her back to where the cruel agent stood, and then one and all started back with exclamations of amazement.

The plate on which they were building their hopes had disappeared! Where the insulated tank which held it had reared its squat length was now a ragged hole in the floor, bordered by the splintered ends of twisted and shattered wood, and beneath this was a yawning hole several feet deep, broken electric wires, and the great slab of metal.

Norma, as if the excitement of the discovery had acted as a tonic, released herself from the supporting arms, walked to the shining brass structure, and leaned against it. Brockton pulled off his cap and scratched his head in a puzzled way, and Jenkins removed the glasses from his nose and began nervously polishing them. The other engineers gaped at each other, at the inventor and then back to the hole wherein to all appearances was buried the thing on which they had built all their hope. "Old Bill" Roberts stood by its edges, looking down and examining the broken wires, a picture of perplexity or despair. He came back and crowded through their midst, examining a connection and tracing out one of the strands, and then stood in listless attitude, his brows drawn into a frown, and his arms hanging loose and pendulous from his shoulders. The time stretched into minutes, and Jenkins and Norma began a discussion, to which the others listened, striving to understand the phraseology of electrical science, of which many of them had little more than the layman's knowledge. Suddenly a sharp cry came from the inventor.

They looked to the other side of the room, whither he had retreated, and beheld him jumping up and down like a madman. His fists were clenched and thrust into the air, where they opened clawlike and waved a tremolo of excitement. "I've got it!" he screamed. "I've solved it!" They drew back from him, fearing that failure had loosened his brain; but he rushed through the group, excitedly calling for men to repair the break. The admiral, unused to his periods of enthusiasm, stared at him blankly, his lower jaw unconsciously dropping until his mouth yawned in cavernous suspense. In his mind nothing but insanity could account for this outburst.

Norma, on the other hand, laid a restraining hand on his arm and said: "Father, what's the matter? What is it?"

"We've been working in the dark!" he answered vehemently, and then with the jubilation of a boy but in a calmer tone continued: "By an accident we have discovered powers in our combination of electricity and metallurgy that we have not dreamed of, and which, if we can control them, make the resistant armor we came down here to manufacture as useless as a wooden hull!"

The admiral suddenly dropped his bulk to a stool. "Good God!" he gasped, "are you mad?"

Norma, like one from whose eyes a hoodwink has been suddenly removed, and appearing almost to have read her father's mind, put her hand out to his shoulder and looked at him searchingly. A slow grin of great exultation swept over the lean old face into which she peered, drove the wrinkles into the corners of the eyes, and a mass of radiating furrows round the mouth.

"You've guessed it," he said, and then turned to the admiral. "Brockton, you don't know what that hole meant; but in an hour from now I'm going to show you. That is, Norma, my assistant, and I will."

Then in a sudden frenzy for work he asked them all to leave until he sent for them, and they, wondering and speculating on his next endeavor, obeyed. Only the workmen, who had descended into the cavity and were preparing to hoist the plate and mold, and the admiral, by special invitation, remained. The clang of hammers resounded hollowly through the room as the timbers beneath the floor were shored up by the carpenters; then came the setting of another and larger tank than the one which had been so unexpectedly driven into the earth. The smaller plates which had been intended only for experimental purposes were exhausted, and therefore they had nothing on which to operate save two immense castings weighing many tons. Wide sliding doors rolled back, and workmen from the foundry, with straining muscles and clanging toes, slowly pushed in low-wheeled cars on which rested the huge pieces of metal. A steel crane projected its ungainly arm, reached slowly down, and in a Titanic grasp picked up one piece, moved it into position over the new bed, and deposited it in a great basin whose material indicated that it would be able to withstand any heat.

The admiral in boyish exuberance would have thrown wide the door; but the inventor, remembering the other contretemps, forbade. The latter busied himself for a few minutes in his storehouse, and returned with a sheet of peculiar insulation which was of his own invention, almost indestructible by heat, and a resistant to any form of radioactivity, which he placed with great care on top of the huge plate. The second plate was lowered squarely on top of this, clamped for additional security, and the workmen dismissed. The connections were made in identically the same way as in the previous test, except that one electrical apparatus was attached to the upper plate above the insulation and the other to the one beneath. Brockton, seeing that the currents were about to be applied, backed off into the corner, until stopped by the farthestmost partition.

"It's all right this time," the inventor assured him. "Wild current and wet floor before, badly insulated handle, too. All fixed up now. Won't be any accident this time," and so on, making the final inspection of his apparatus as he talked. Norma reviewed her father's work, to be certain that all was well, and then at a nod from him took her station at the other monster which had not been used hitherto. There was a simultaneous movement on their part, and as if suddenly endowed with a soul, the lights once more flashed here and there, glaring at them with sinister contempt—Frankensteins under control!

The admiral, fascinated by the mystery of science, stared at the white-haired old man who was calmly watching his play of colors, and then at the girl, who with equal self-possession and coolness manipulated the strange currents beneath her hands. They were animated as by one mind, throwing their levers and switches to and fro at identically the same moment without looking at each other, and the click of the closing currents came in unison. Not until then did they step back from their stations and interchange what seemed to the admiral mutual glances of congratulation.

"That assistant of mine is a wonder!" was all the old man said as he came over, dragged a stool up beside that on which the officer sat, and gleefully rubbed his hands together. "She thinks more clearly than I do."

Brockton, who had been tense as a violin string and had almost forgotten to breathe, drew a long breath and looked at the girl, who had been leaning against the wall as though exhausted, but was now watching the slowly cooling metal. He would have asked questions; but the inventor turned to him and with an air of triumph said:

"I wish you would invite all those who were here when we made the first test. Then you will have the explanation unless I am again mistaken."

The admiral obeyed, and even as the cooling sprays were sifting over the great pieces of metal they came trooping in from the work which they had resumed. There were men from the draughting rooms with pencils behind their ears, engineers from the outside with shirt sleeves rolled up and forgotten diagrams under their arms, and one man came from the laboratory absentmindedly carrying a test tube, balancing it so that he might spill none of the liquid which it contained. Norma was now resting calmly against one of the huge dead machines.

In a tone of unusual gravity Roberts addressed them. "Boys," he began—they were all boys to him—"you have witnessed the accidental discovery. I believe, of the most powerful force the world has ever known. You have been fortunate. In more than 70 years of life, I who have spent the time in strange studies and stranger work, have had no privilege so great. You have all been kind to my daughter and to me, and I am glad you are here now." He paused for a moment, seeing with introspective eyes all the great events of his life. Then, recalling himself from this review, he turned to Jenkins as a kindred spirit, and to a boyish officer who stood near at hand.

"You two," he said, indicating them with his hand, "may have the honor of picking up those plates."

There was an instant of breathless astonishment. Jenkins was the first to recover, and unhesitatingly walked forward. The younger man drew back as though he had received an order from an insane man consigning him to inglorious death. The voice of the admiral put an end to the wait.

"Go ahead!" he said quietly. "Those plates may weigh tons; but if Dr. Roberts tells you to pick them up, you go and try it."

With the absolute precision of training, the officer's heels came together and his hand to his cap in quick salute. He strode to the plates, and stood opposite Jenkins, while the spectators craned forward, speculating as to what freak of madness was to be demonstrated. Jenkins, grave and unquestioning, looked across at his companion, nodded to him, and together they stooped and caught a handhold. Together they gathered their muscles as if for some prodigious exercise of strength, and simultaneously strained upward.

To the amazement of those within the room the great masses of metal came up with such ease that they were lifted breast high without perceptible effort.

COMMISSIONERS' PROCEEDINGS.

Ada, Okla., May 8, 1908.

The Board of County Commissioners of Pontotoc County, Oklahoma, met at the County Clerk's office, all being present, and transacted the following business:

The report of W. H. Hammond, Justice of the Peace of Frances Township, for the quarter ending March 31, 1908, was approved.

Warrant No. 8 on the supply fund for $33.94 was cancelled.

The Farmers Independent Telephone Co. was granted the privilege to use the north and east edge of the public roads of the county where it does not conflict with other lines already in operation; the privilege was also granted to cross the roads where it is necessary.

$1200 was transferred from the court fund to the supply fund.

The following bonds of banks that had been designated as county depositories were approved: First National Bank of Ada, First National Bank of Roff, Farmers Bank of Roff, Farmers State Bank of Ada, Bank of Francis, and the First Bank of Allen.

The claim of Haney & Phillips for $100.00 for rent on the court house for May was allowed.

The claim of W. S. Kerr for $2.70 for stamps and express was allowed.

The following section lines was designated as a public high way: beginning at the S. E. corner of Sec. 14 Twp. 5 N. Range 4 East thence west five miles to the west line of Pontotoc County.

J. D. RINARD, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

Attest: W. S. KERR, County Clerk.

STATE OF OKLAHOMA, PONTOTOC COUNTY.

Now on this 11th day of May, 1908, the Board of County Commissioners of Pontotoc County, Oklahoma met at the County Clerk's office at Ada, Okla. J. D. Rinard and C. W. Floyd being present and transacted the following business:

The vote of Stock District No. 8 was canvassed and it was found that a majority of the votes were cast in favor of all domestic animals running at large and it was ordered that hogs be allowed to run at large after June 2nd, 1908.

The following claims against the county were allowed and warrants were ordered drawn on the court fund for their payment:

AMERICA MUST DOMINATE SEA.

United States Can Never Feel Safe on Pacific Coast Until Then, Says Representative Hobson.

San Francisco, Cal., May 9.—Capt. Richard P. Hobson, who is now in this city, is in favor of a powerful fleet on the Pacific Coast. In discussing the matter yesterday he said:

"The Pacific Coast demands the retention of the fleet now in this harbor. It means the protection not only of the West, but of the whole country. The United States can never feel safe on the Pacific ocean until she dominates the sea as well as the land. And domination of the sea means a fleet of such proportions that the whole race need have no fears of aggressions of the yellow race."
